The Summer Outing to Culzean Castle and Gardens was enjoyed by 40 members, with a tour of the castle, leisure in the gardens, refreshments at the Castle and then at Nardinis in Largs.

The clifftop castle gave amazing views over the Firth of Clyde. Architecture by Robert Adams showed off a large drum tower used as a circular drawing room, and a grand oval staircase leading to a corridor of hand-painted ceilings, grand oil paintings, the dining room displayed its ornate decorated Adams ceiling.

The gardens were a joyful mix of rockeries, shrubs, seriously old trees, leading to the Swan Pond, and the beach.

A great day out for us all, and no-one got lost !

16. All decisions of Show conveners and judges are final.

K H S - TOP VASE - Rules for TOP VASE, as directed by “Garden News”

1 vase, mixed flowering stems – fresh, homegrown - containing a total of between 5 and 10 stems, requiring a minimum of two different kinds of plants (note: two different kinds - two varieties of the same plant are not two kinds)

Your vase will be viewed from all directions.

No dried or silk flowers are allowed. No seed heads or berries are allowed, no accessories such as bows or additional foliage allowed. (Foliage which is growing naturally from the flowering stem and is still attached to that stem is permitted).

You may use packing material, e.g. chickenwire, gravel, straw, flower foliage.

Your vase can be any shape or size, in proportion to the display. No marks for the vase itself.

The judges' decision is collective and final.

PARKLEA BRANCHING OUT – Sharon Gemmell (director)

Parklea Branching Out first opened in 1997 next to Parklea playing fields, Port Glasgow. It has since grown in stature through the dedication and vision of Sharon Gemmell and her team. Parklea has voluntary charitable status - their mission statement is “growing people in the community through horticulture”. Its aim is to give support to people with learning difficulties or physical disabilities, through social and therapeutic horticulture, in a friendly happy atmosphere.

The purchase of additional greenhouses/polytunnels last year has enabled Parklea Branching Out to expand, to produce top quality plants for the public, the council, and charitable events. Training of students to SQA level with work experience helps many young people forge a career in horticulture.

In April 2023 Parklea Branching Out were awarded substantial grants and funding to build a multi-purpose vibrant community hub and community café, which will be ready for work in the late autumn. Parklea is a key partner in the development of Inverclyde Community Food Network, designed to encourage and support local people to get involved in food growing activities, with a view to supplying fresh produce to families in temporary impoverished circumstances. Surplus food is donated by supermarkets, allotments, local retailers, for re-distribution.

ICFN’s mission is working towards net zero waste in Inverclyde. Congratulations, with all good wishes, to director Sharon Gemmell and her merry band of workers and volunteers.
